

Editorial

Revista Catarinense da Ciência Contábil (RCCC) aims to give space and visibility to scientific articles published by Accounting professionals, professors, researchers, and students, in addition to being a reading and learning tool for those seeking permanent updating within their market niche.

In 2019, RCCC changed its periodicity to the continuous publication format, providing more agility in the dissemination of scientific production. The evaluation process remains the same, always striving for the quality of the articles. Upon receipt and approval, the publication is immediate.

We register here our special thanks for the work developed in 2019, at the head of the Scientific Editorial Board of RCCC, to professor Dr. Fernando Richartz.

With the inauguration of the new board of CRCSC in 2020, changes were made to the editorial board, including the inclusion of the position of associate editor. Thus, starting this year, Professor Sérgio Murilo Petri will be chief editor, and Professor Sandro Vieira Soares will be an associate editor.

Petri is an accountant and doctor in Production Engineering from the Federal University of Santa Catarina (UFSC), where he is currently an assistant teacher working as a permanent professor in the Accounting Post-Graduation Program (PPGC/UFSC) and the Management Control Post-Graduation Program (PPGCG/UFSC). He has experience in Accounting and Administration, with emphasis on Organizational Performance Evaluation. Soares is an accountant and doctor in Controllershship and Accounting from the University of São Paulo (USP) and professor at the University of the South of Santa Catarina (Unisul) working as a permanent professor in the Post-Graduation Program in Administration (PPGA/Unisul). He has experience in Accounting and Administration, with an emphasis on Accounting Evaluation of Organizational Performance and in Teaching and Research in Accounting and Administration.

Opening volume 19 of RCCC, we published the article “Stock market and macroeconomic variables: evidence for Brazil,” authored by Luan Vinicius Bernardelli and Gustavo Henrique Leite de Castro.

Good reading!

Accountant Rúbia Albers Magalhães
CRCSC President