

PRESENTATION

The Revista Catarinense da Ciência Contábil (RCCC) of the Regional Accounting Council of Santa Catarina reaches its twentieth volume and celebrates its 20th anniversary since its launch. This is an important milestone for its trajectory. During these two decades, the Journal obtained important victories and became a reference in accounting. With the mission of supporting scientific production, RCCC publishes materials produced by professors, researchers, students, and professionals from Brazil and abroad, selected based on quality and contribution to the development and dissemination of knowledge in this field.

One of the outstanding achievements occurred in January this year. The RCCC migrated from OJS 2 to OJS 3 - a system in which the selected articles are evaluated and published. This change is extremely positive since it has made the website look more friendly and accessible since OJS 3 is responsive on various reading platforms.

The academy and the CRCSC are in constant connection and aim to strengthen ties with society, given that they are institutions formed by people who crave the accounting class's valuation. To open the magazine's twentieth volume, we will have the article "(In)Equality regimes in auditing: are we allowed to bring our true selves to work?" (Regimes de (des)igualdade na auditoria: nos é permitido trazermos nosso verdadeiro eu ao trabalho?), in which the authors discuss and analyze the trajectories of people who are part of non-hegemonic groups within audit firms.

Happy reading to all!
